

PENNY CSENDERITS

Penny joined the Crown Solicitor's Office (CSO) in 2004 in the Community Law practice group and was appointed as Director in 2018. She is an experienced litigator and advisor who supervises and has carriage of matters involving all aspects of work done in the group, including charitable trust law, discrimination, guardianship, public interest immunity and subpoena matters for a range of NSW Government agencies.

While at the CSO, Penny has also practised in children's law including care and protection matters and succession law involving children. Prior to joining the CSO, Penny worked in private practice and in various roles at CCH Australia Ltd, specialising in workplace relations and employment law.