

Nick Birbas*, Partner, Newhouse & Arnold Solicitors

Nick Birbas was admitted to practice in 1998. Nick has always practiced in commercial and business law. Starting in 2004, Nick created and operated a food retail franchise system as franchisor. Nick saw first hand the types of issues that arise for franchisees and franchisors in the operation of their businesses and their obligations to each other.

Nick became an accredited specialist in business law in 2014. Nick has advised franchisors and franchisees in commercial disputes and litigation. Nick has also acted for purchasers and sellers of franchises and franchise systems.

Nick also advises health practices concerning their business and commercial legal requirements and the buying and selling of health practices.
