

The Law Society
OF NEW SOUTH WALES

Brian Barlow

Professional Support Solicitor, Law Society of NSW

Brian has a background in local government and studied law whilst a Building Inspector with Randwick Council. He then practised as a solicitor with Randwick Council in the Local and Land & Environment Courts. In 1993 he moved to the regional town of Gloucester, NSW, working in general legal private practice for more than 20 years.

In 2014 Brian relocated back to Sydney to work for two specialised estate planning law practices. More recently he was the NSW senior estate planning lawyer with ANZ Private Bank.

Brian joined the Law Society in 2025 as the Legal Information Officer in the Access to Justice Department. He is currently a Professional Support Solicitor in the Law Society's Legal Regulation Team, supporting solicitors to comply with their regulatory obligations.