

Adam Faro

Barrister, Forbes Chambers

Admitted as a legal practitioner in 2013

Admitted as a barrister in 2022

Prior to coming to the Bar, Adam practised almost exclusively in criminal law for over nine years, most recently as a Senior Associate in one of Sydney's top criminal defence firms. Adam has appeared as an advocate in criminal proceedings before the Local, District and Supreme Courts. Outside of criminal law, he also appeared in inquests and inquiries before the Coroner's Court, and for doctors and allied health practitioners in disciplinary proceedings before NCAT and the Medical Council.

Principal areas of practice:

- Criminal law
- Corporate crime
- Criminal appeals
- Medical disciplinary councils and tribunals
- Commissions of inquiry
- Coronial inquests and inquiries

THE LAW SOCIETY
OF NEW SOUTH WALES