

Louise Brown

Senior Solicitor and Manager, Genealogy NSW Trustee and Guardian

Louise Brown is the Senior Solicitor and Manager of the Genealogy Unit at NSW Trustee and Guardian (NSWTG). Louise and her team deal with complex intestacy matters and conduct genealogy research in every corner of the globe. When records are destroyed by war, fire, floods or pooping pigeons, where they are lost or never existed, or where strict confidentiality laws prevent disclosure of information or the release of birth, death, marriage or divorce certificates, Louise is responsible for commencing all next of kin applications for NSWTG at the Supreme Court. Previously Louise was the Senior Deputy Registrar in Probate at the Supreme Court, where she conducted the probate list (prior to the judges taking over the list) and dealt with the most complex probate and administration applications. Louise is a member of the Elder Law, Capacity and Succession Committee of the Law Society and is a regular presenter at CPDs in succession.
