

Skye Owen

Special Counsel, Lander & Rogers

Skye is an accredited family law specialist who was admitted to practice in December 2007. She is passionate about resolving matters early for her clients and is committed to ensuring widespread access to the family law system. Skye is known for her compassion, technical expertise and integrity, and is frequently engaged for her expert advice on issues involving complex parenting and family violence matters.

Skye recognises the importance of helping families through the family law process in a respectful, empathetic and collaborative way. She acknowledges the importance of supporting clients through a very difficult time, and in doing so, works closely with an extensive network of therapeutic health professionals, accountants and financial advisors.

Skye has been extensively engaged in social science research relating to family law and family violence. She understands the importance to families of resolving conflict for the benefit of children. She has been a member of the Association of Family and Conciliation Courts.

Skye has also worked as a legal associate to several of the part-time members at the Administrative Appeals Tribunal. She has worked across a range of administrative areas including taxation, freedom of information, migration and social security.
