

Rebekah Hunter

Principal Solicitor, NSW Treasury

Rebekah Hunter is the Chair of the NSW Law Society's In-House Corporate Lawyers Committee, a Councillor on the Law Society of NSW Council, and the Deputy Chair of NSW Law Society's Fidelity Fund Management Committee.

Rebekah currently works as a government solicitor in the Office of General Counsel at NSW Treasury, where she provides legal advice on banking and related matters. Prior to this, she led a policy framework review and uplift at MinterEllison, aimed at enhancing governance and compliance.

Previously, Rebekah was Head of BFS Regulatory Change in Macquarie Bank's Banking and Financial Services (BFS) Regulatory Risk Team, following 18 years as a senior financial services product lawyer within the BFS Legal team. With over 24 years of experience in Australian banking and financial services, Rebekah has deep expertise in retail financial services law and regulatory risk management including board-level reporting, senior management engagement and reporting, and oversight of regulatory change execution aligned with governance frameworks.

Rebekah brings a unique blend of private practice, in-house and government experience, with a strong focus on proactive regulatory engagement and strategic legal leadership.

THE LAW SOCIETY
OF NEW SOUTH WALES