

Mimi Su

Principal Lawyer, Private Clients - Wills & Estates, Macpherson Kelley

Mim Su has more than 15 years' experience in wills, trusts, superannuation and estates. She specialises in complex estate planning for high-net worth individuals and business/family succession matters.

Mimi has extensive experience in advising clients on testamentary trusts, special disability trusts, unit trusts and discretionary trusts, and in identifying the many potential problems. She has successfully assisted families with the complex issues of inter-generational wealth transfer and with minimising the risks of disputes down the track.

In addition, Mimi regularly advises clients on contested estate matters appearing before the Supreme Court in family provision claims, capacity issues, undue influence and trust disputes. She has also assisted many clients with superannuation disputes involving the Superannuation Complaints Tribunal and the Guardianship Division of NCAT.

Mimi has a Master of Law degree specialising in taxation, which complements her previous work in the Tax Division of a big-four accounting firm. Mimi's taxation expertise enables her to provide the necessary tax-conscious advice for clients with complex family group structures and asset holdings.
