

Raphael Hudson

Barrister, Frederick Jordan Chambers

Raphael Hudson is a barrister at Frederick Jordan Chambers. He maintains a broad litigation practice extending to common law, equity, and public law litigation. He also appears in a number of specialist practice areas, including native title and bankruptcy. A recent highlight was his successful appeal to a Full Court of the Federal Court, where he appeared unled in a matter concerning procedural fairness and the Court's powers to restrain practitioners from acting in conflict: Maclean v Brylewski, in the matter of Maclean [2025] FCAFC 133.

Prior to being called to the Bar, Raphael practised as a solicitor at the NSW Crown Solicitor's Office for 11 years. He has a strong background in appellate work, having worked as a Tipstaff to the Hon. Peter Young AO, then Justice of the NSW Court of Appeal, and to the Hon. Kevin Lindgren AM KC, then Acting Justice of the Supreme Court of NSW.
