

THE LAW SOCIETY
OF NEW SOUTH WALES

Digital Forensics

Social media is now routinely referenced in many types of legal cases. Compliance and ethical considerations need to be addressed so that the social media itself, or any conclusions based upon it, can be relied upon.

Compared to other forms of electronically stored information, social media presents some unique challenges for forensic practitioners and lawyers.

This session will help you understand the challenges and develop solutions to equip you for the future of digital forensic evidence.

Brett Webber, CEO, ConsiAD

Ethics Hypotheticals

In this session Linden Barnes will provide a practical, interactive discussion using hypothetical situations to test your knowledge and think differently about how to manage ethical dilemmas. You will takeaway an understanding of how being an officer of the court affects your work and what impact it has on our clients.

Linden Barnes, Senior Ethics solicitor, The Law Society of NSW

Practice & Procedure in the Federal Court

In this session David Pringle will provide a detailed update on practice and procedure in the Federal Court. From this informative session you will learn:

- Key principles of case management (central practice note)
- What actions may be brought under the 'Other Federal Jurisdiction' practice area
- Developments in the areas of evidence and costs

David Pringle, Deputy National Operations Registrar & National Practice Registrar, Federal Court of Australia