Reece Corbett-Wilkins

Reece is a leading member of Clyde & Co's cyber incident response team and has experience acting in a range of local, regional and global incidents affecting government agencies and organisations of all sizes, operating across all industry sectors. He routinely advises boards and other senior members in the executive, legal, IT, risk management and public relations functions.

Acting as 'breach coach', he has assisted hundreds of entities navigate their strategic response to incidents including some of Australia's most prominent and industry wide cyber events in recent times. In addition to providing incident response services, Reece routinely advises entities on incident preparedness, and also acts in third party IT liability claims, regulatory investigations and recovery actions following cyber incidents.
